Glenn French is a singer/songwriter from Fairfield, Connecticut. He is also a self taught musician and accomplished guitarist. His music is best described as “adult contemporary” with influences of “folk” and “blues“. At the age of 15, he became fascinated with the music he heard at Woodstock in 1969.

In 1997, using his two car garage as a home recording studio, Glenn began writing and recording songs. In 2002, Glenn was contacted by Steve Haggard of Wild Oats Records, an independent label based out of Nashville. Steve produced and recorded four of Glenn's original songs and released them on a CD entitled “Signs Of The Times“. Steve Haggard also produced Glenn’s latest CD entitled “Timeless”.

In 2007, he released his first single to radio. He is gaining International notoriety for his works and receiving airplay all over the world. The media compares his music to James Taylor.
